

Dandelion Life cycle

The seed lands in soil.

The seed germinates.

The young plant begins to grow.

The flowers grow.

A bee pollinates the flower.

The flowers die and fall off.

The dandelion seed head or 'clock' forms.

The seeds are dispersed by the wind.